

Baldwin Pledges Every Effort to Stabilize Europe

Reiterates Warning of World Revolution as the Inevitable Result of War—Missing No Opportunity to Work for Peace

London, Nov. 9.—Speaking at the banquet in honor of the new Lord Mayor, Sir George Broadbridge, Prime Minister Baldwin warned that the inevitable result of war would be "world revolution," and pledged the Government would try "to save Europe" through disarmament and lowered trade barriers.

"I am prepared to devote all our efforts, whatever may be the cost in men and money, to do what is necessary, but I am conscious all the time of the folly of all of us," the Prime Minister declared.

READY AND ANXIOUS

The Government is ready and anxious to embrace any and every opportunity to stem this growth of armament and to effect a reduction of armament and enter into agreements which will make for peace and remove from Europe that fear which broods over her today.

He said he had new negotiations of the socio-economic workers would "outline the first step towards European settlement."

Mr. Baldwin made a brief reference to the recent visit to London of Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

"During recent months," the Prime Minister said, "we have been glad to welcome to this country a number of His Majesty's Ministers from the different Dominions who have been able to visit us here, among them Mr. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister of Canada . . .

WELCOME OPPORTUNITIES

"I would love to assure the members of the Governments of the Dominions on behalf of His Majesty's Government that we appreciate and welcome the opportunities which they give us to discuss here accurately many problems of vital interest to us all."

"The meeting of the Imperial councilors, which is to be held next year at the time of His Majesty's Coronation, will afford a further proof of the value of free discussion for the solution of our common problems."

Much of his speech was devoted to new trade agreements with Italy and the Argentine and to the Anglo-American joint policy of "liberation of the world from the shackles which unduly impede free development of international trade."

EXPECT MANY AT ARMISTICE BALL

Final arrangements have now been completed for the Armistice Ball, which is to be held in the Empress Hotel this evening under the auspices of the Amputations Association of the Great War.

This event, which is gaining in popularity each year, promises to surpass all those held in the past and should be one of the outstanding functions of Victoria's social calendar. A very special Remembrance Day number is to be the feature of this year's dance programme. Other novelty numbers have also been arranged and the affair promises to supply a very joyous evening to those attending.

Those intending to spend the evening at the bridge tables are reminded to bring playing cards and score pads with them.

Tickets may still be obtained from members of the association at the Capital Shoe Repairs, 609 Fort Street.

BAD BREATH

The old theory that bad breath arises in the mouth is misleading. Bad breath invariably arises from the stomach. Bryptol Antiseptic cures the mouth, and when swallowed, neutralizes fermentative processes in the stomach, the real source of bad breath. Satisfaction or money refunded by all Vancouver Drug Co. Laboratory Changing World of Things by Many Substitutions

Dr. J. Allen Harris, M.P.P. for South Okanagan, Gives Fascinating Talk to Members of University Women's Club at Victoria College

A SURPRISING world of synthetic foods, synthetic clothes, synthetic textiles, furniture, pavements, motor cars, and other commodities, the construction of which now demands the using of natural products, was pictured by Dr. J. Allen Harris, M.P.P. for South Okanagan, in a fascinating talk given before members of the Victoria College last evening.

"Gradually we are replacing man power by mechanical power; we are training bacteria to do the work of machines and the work of men; and bacteria have no labor-hour laws; there is no question of pay. We are settling down to an age which goes to making the mechanical age work like a Siemens power plant," the speaker said at one point, leading up to his tribute to the research scientist in the laboratory responsible for some remarkable discoveries.

PURE AND APPLIED

Chemistry has developed under the heading of "pure," "applied" and "unapplied," although concentrating almost entirely on the first two aspects. "Pure" chemistry was the theoretical aspect, and in the popular sense a little-mentioned aspect. But the moment "pure" chemistry had a dollar sign attached to it, it became "applied," and the person associated with it usually got most of the credit. Industrial chemistry was theoretical chemistry applied. Neon was an outstanding example of this, he said.

"Up to the war, chemistry was a science left to those considered stupid enough to waste time away in university and laboratory. But it had long since entered the field of practical business. The issue had been hastened from the fact of tremendous war munitions plants finding themselves suddenly closed, thereby creating armies of unemployed for whom occupation had to be found.

WOOD AND COAL
Wood, for generations considered the ideal material for structural work of all kinds, and coal, for a long time of major importance as fuel, were shown to have rapidly-increasing substitution. So far, there was a lessening of fear of consequences of ruthless destruction of forests. Many other things were taking the place of wood in building and construction work, particularly cement being used instead. One scientist recently had stated that the world would not suffer much if all wood products disappeared, as there are so many substitutes.

"Only one industry would suffer badly, and that is antique furniture," noted the speaker.

Actually, considerable inconvenience would be caused in many industries. For instance, $40,000,000 of American money was invested in the pulp, paper and allied industries in Canada. A picture was given of the gigantic effort being made by the United States to plant trees over about 100,000,000 acres formerly used for growing cotton. This suggested the importance of wood pulp in the rayon industry. In the last ten years the only increase in textile industry had been in the synthetic class. Cellulose, another wood product, had become almost a nuisance, he stated.

CELLULOSE MOLECULE
The determination of the structure of the cellulose molecule was a recent and highly important discovery of science, opening up the possibility of cellulose, in its broken-down form, as sugar, glucose and starch.

Great Britain and Germany, faced with the possible prospect of a dearth of oil in the event of war cutting off present sources of supply, had advanced far in the perfection of processes whereby coal could be hydrogenated to give a very fine type of oil. Dr. Harris predicted that within five years the world would be using artificial rubber that would have an advantage over natural rubber of being impermeable and impervious to grease. Once its price was brought down there was no reason why rubber should not be used to pave streets. It was shown, too, how the soy bean, in various forms, was

SPANISH WAR IS EXPLAINED

Government Envoy Tells Meeting Rebellion Was One Against Democracy

That the Spanish rebellion was one against Communism was a false rumor, asserted Senor Isabella de Palencia, one of three delegates for Spanish Government, who spoke Sunday night in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium before a large audience. It was a rebellion against democracy rather than against Communism, he charged.

Also speaking from the platform during the meeting were Hon. Marcelino Domingo, president of the Republican party of Spain; A. A. McLeod, chairman of the League Against War and Fascism, and Father Sarasola, a Spanish priest.

Lord Bower, Conservative, asked

Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, whether the Government planned to protect independent British motion picture distributors endangered by the increasing association between foreign picture houses and the large picture theatres.

Runciman replied that a departmental committee would make a report available shortly.

ITALIAN FOOTING

The speaker explained that more than half of Spain was won from the rebels when Fascist nations, framed the non-intervention pact, putting the unarmed government on the same footing as insuring army officers. Then planes and tanks from Fascist countries appeared in the rebel army and rebels called in the help of Moroccan troops, the Foreign Legion and the savage tribes of Northern Africa, she claimed.

With Madame Palencia as translator, Senor Domingo stated: "Fascism tries to incarnate authority. There is no regime which can live without authority. But there are two kinds, force and liberty.

WORLD PROBLEM

"I have a conviction the world will soon realize the problem of Spain is a universal one. . . . The frontiers were frontiers of nations. In the next, they will be frontiers of ideas. The rebels may take Madrid, Valencia and Catalonia, but if they do not conquer the democratic spirit of the people of Spain, Spain will be victorious."

Mr. McLeod told of the work of the League of Nations, which is sending medical equipment, worth $2,000, to Spain.

Father Sarasola stated he stood by the Government because he was a Catholic and a Democrat. The Government was democratic and constitutional, elected with a majority of 3,500,000 votes.

Foreign Secretary Eden informed the House, in replying to another query, is still negotiating a settlement with Japan on the alleged torture of three British sailors in Formosa, and "fully recognizes the serious nature of the question."

Still another query was made about the situation in India. Lord Cranborne replied that the territory "remains under the authority of the Chinese Government" despite the difficulty of obtaining details on the military situation there.

ITALIAN FOOTING

Referring to the new Anglo-Italian trade agreement, Runciman said: "I hope the agreement now reached, will enable trade between the two countries to be satisfactory and will re-establish it on a basis which will permit a progressive return to normal conditions."

Germany has paid war reparations to the former Allies to a total of 7,691,000,000 gold marks approximately $3,076,400,000," according to an agreement made by Lt.-Col. D. J. Colville, financial secretary to the treasury.

He furnished figures from the Bank of International Settlements to show that loans granted to Germany between 1924 and 1930 totalled 18,200,000,000 reichsmarks.

Definite Policy Is Need for Canada as World Crisis Nears

Denton Massey, M.P., Toronto, Discusses Some Phases of Dominion's Position in World Affairs At League of Nations Society Meeting Here

CANADA is at the crossroads in international affairs and can have no voice in world decisions until she determines what sort of Canada she wants," declared Denton Massey, M.P., Toronto, in a vigorous address on "The Voice of Canada in International Affairs," at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium here last night, under the auspices of the Victoria Branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada.

Mr. Massey's address was directed mainly against any isolationist policy that would divorce Canada from the Commonwealth of Nations, and in condemnation of arguments supporting nationalistic selfishness of sectional and parochial character. He maintained that Canada had fought her battles with the nations of the world through the 67,000 men who gave their lives in the Great War. "Yet," he said, "we are in the absurd position of having no voice at all, because we have not yet determined what sound that voice should make."

CANADA'S PROBLEM

Canada, today, he continued, was face to face with one of the greatest problems in history. The possibility of war in Europe had brought the Dominion to a standstill, that a national policy for Canada to be determined. He then went on to describe the four schools of thought uppermost in the Dominion today. These he classified as: (1) those who want Canada isolated from Europe on a go-it-alone policy; (2) those who do not want a Canada at all and say the Dominion should be divided into states; (3) those who do not know what they want; (4) those who want a Dominion in fact

RHEUMATISM SPREAD TO ALL HER JOINTS

Obtained Relief by Using Kruschen Salts

Here is a sad story of suffering, but it has a happy ending. This woman was attacked by severe rheumatism which spread to all her joints and she was brought relief as she describes below:

"If it my duty to tell you how Kruschen Salts brought me relief from severe attacks of rheumatism, I had rheumatism in my legs and knees, later spreading to every joint in my body. This lasted over a period of years and finally I was compelled to bed with acute rheumatism. I was recommended to try Kruschen Salts and before finding the time to do so, I was able to perform my normal duties."—Mrs. J. D.

Rheumatic conditions are frequently due to an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients help to draw the "Nature" to expel the dissolved uric acid through the natural channels single dulcet note. It is not government that will do the tuning, but public opinion.

MUST FACE FACTS

"Canada," he declared in conclusion, "must face facts and not flit with fiction, and we must not, in the name of our Fathers of Confederation and the pioneers who made Canada what it is today, throw all away for that which is sectional and parochial welfare. To quote the words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, 'The century belongs to Canada.' Let us see to it that it remains so."

Mr. Massey referred, in his opening remarks, to the work of the League of Nations and declared the best instrument to enforce peace and asked for continued support from the people of Canada. The League of Nations, he said, "is the only way in which Canada would become a neutral Empire, which would mean that Canada would no longer be British or her citizens British subjects."

DIVORCE FROM EMPIRE
"Therefore," he continued, "let him who argues Canada's neutrality be ready to surrender our connections and our prestige and the services of a diplomatic, naval and military organization. Divorced from the Empire, Canada would become a nation in its own right."

Rev. Dr. Gerald B. Switzer was the chairman.

Obituary

CATHEDRAL—Many friends were present at the funeral held yesterday afternoon at the Anglican Cathedral, 1246 Fort Street, Rev. A. E. Balfour Bruce conducted an impressive service, during which two hymns were sung, "Ne'er, My God, to Thee" and "My God and Father, While I Stray." The many beautiful floral tributes were presented to the high esteem in which Mrs. Cathew was held. The remains were laid at rest in Colwood Burial Park.

SHEPPARD—The funeral of John Sheppard took place yesterday afternoon, Rev. A. E. Balfour Bruce conducting the service. There was a large congregation of friends and a profusion of beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and hearse. The hymn sung by the congregation was "Lead, Kindly Light." A solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," was sung by Mr. Thomas. The remains were laid at rest in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

FEDERAL TAXATION HANDICAPS

The rapid improvement that is taking place in the receipts being secured by the Federal Treasury should make a reduction in taxation possible in the Budget of next Spring. Income tax for the fiscal year is likely to return $100,000,000, and the sales tax the same amount. The improvement in economic conditions means a constant growth in taxation returns, and there will be an amount largely in excess of that estimated by Mr. Dunning, the Finance Minister, at the end of the current fiscal year.

The upward movement in business would be considerably accelerated by tax reductions. Business has been badly hampered for some years past, and so much money has been flowing into the Federal Treasury that there is less available for investment in industry. Moreover, the taxes that now hamper development inspire distrust about the future. When it is considered that $200,000,000 is being taken this year from the people and business generally in the income and sales taxes alone it is possible to appreciate what the drain is on individuals and companies. Business generally in this country has worked well, despite this depressing handicap. How much better it could be made to work if there was relief. The probability is that the Federal Treasury would gain rather than lose by a remission of taxation.

A POLITICAL FUSION

In Alberta there is a movement afoot to bring about a fusion of the parties which are opposing the Social Credit Government. The initiative is being taken by Mr. D. M. Duggan, the leader of the Provincial Conservatives, who explains there is no purpose of political strategy, but the desire to restore order out of chaos. There are sixty-three members in the Alberta Legislature, of whom fifty-six are Social Crediters, five Liberals and two Conservatives. The followers of parties, other than Social Credit, are now being invited to a fusion movement. Certain assurances of support towards this end are evident. Many of those formerly active in the United Farmers are willing to join, and some Liberals have foreshadowed their adherence. Mr. Duggan emphasizes that the Conservatives are ready to make any sacrifices for the good of the Province. In other words, there are no strings attached to the proposal, and the question of leadership is to be left an open one; what is wanted is unity.

In Alberta the issue has become one of the protection of property and the liberty of the individual. The present Government, according to General W. A. Griesbach, has destroyed the credit of the Province in a year, and the credit of the individual, and it now threatens to destroy the liberty of the people. He maintains that it should be the duty of the citizens to join in a patriotic effort to salvage what remains, in the interest of the Province. The fusion movement would embrace Conservatives, Liberals, United Farmers and others dissatisfied with the present regime, and there is no question that, with changing opinion in Alberta, it would form a political force of gathering strength.

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS

In company with the Bench, Bar and his host of personal friends, the Colonist joins in extending felicitations to His Honor William Ward Spinks, who today attains his eighty-fifth birthday. Judge Spinks, who is now living in retirement at 1354 Craigdarroch Road, has the distinction of being the doyen of the Bench in British Columbia, for although no longer presiding, his appointment was made in 1889. He came to the Interior of the Province when the C.P.R. was in the making, and after several years practising as a lawyer he was called upon to preside on the Bench at a time when the country was rapidly changing in character and the problems of settlement were many and varied. It was an interesting period in British Columbia's history, and the Province is fortunate that Judge Spinks, in his retirement, is putting into permanent form stories of those changing times. His writings are featured by calm judicial selection of facts and fine perception of historical worth. On the occasion of his eighty-fifth birthday it is fitting that reference should be made to the contribution that Judge Spinks has made, and is continuing to make, for the good of British Columbia.

POLITICAL PATRONAGE

Nothing could conquer the forces of patronage in this Dominion to the same extent as the putting into effect of the British Civil Service system. The promise that this will be done in Ontario has been made by Mr. Earl Rowe, the Conservative leader. It would prove a revolution for the better, because patronage is a dangerous sore on the body-politic. After a change of Government in Great Britain there is no such spectacle as employees of the Government being dismissed from posts and other employees of the political stripe of the Government taking their places. There is a security of tenure in the Civil Service. It makes for loyalty, for good work, and there is no fear among Civil Servants of being at the mercy of political partisanship.

Mr. Rowe calls the patronage system "vicious." It is. Instead of Civil Servants graduating for new posts created by a Government, these are given, in many cases, to outsiders who have rendered some political service and who have no other qualifications for the duties. The consequence is that government services throughout the country are littered with misfits, and administration suffers in proportion. This is especially the case because social legislation has led to so many bureaucracies coming into vogue. It is the case always where partisanship governs appointments and not merit. The system is now strongly entrenched and has become part and parcel of government. Nevertheless, any political leader strong enough to adopt the British system in Canada will find that he has popular support behind him. It is the only fair system, the one which will make the Civil Service a worth-while profession.

PRESERVE THE TILICUM

The little three-ton boat, hardly more than a cockleshell, in which Captain Jon Voss sailed 40,000 miles in three years, three months and twelve days, is mounted as a relic in the grounds of the Crystal Garden. It is subject to the deprivations of weather without any attempt being made at preservation. Yet it is a relic worth perpetuating. It was formerly the "canoe of an Alaskan Indian Chief, hewn out of a single tree trunk seventy-two years ago. On its historic voyage it called at the following places: Penrhyn Island, Humphrey Island, Danger Island, Samoa, Fiji Islands, Sydney, N.S.W.; Newcastle, N.S.W.; Melbourne, Geelong, Adelaide, New Hebrides, Thursday Island, Rodriguez Island, Durban, South Africa; East London, Capetown, St. Helena, Pernambuco, Brazil; Ponta Delgada, and wound up its almost world-circling trip at Margate. The Tilicum sailed from this city. It was registered here. What remains of the little vessel should not be allowed to rot away because of its importance to its preservation.

PROVINCIAL CENTRE OF POLITICS

The political parties set the Provincial Government the example of concentrating so many activities in Vancouver. The Liberals have their headquarters there; so have the Conservatives, the C.C.F., the Socialists, the Social Creditors, the Laborites, and now, last of the scattered legions, the Social Constructives have pitched their tent in the Mainland city. This is the only Province in the Dominion where the capital is so much ignored by all shades of political opinion.

It is regarded by the politicians as a place in which to take their ease while the legislative session is in progress. Most of the Cabinet Ministers spend a great deal of their time away from the capital, and the expenditure of the people's money on their preoccupations elsewhere has reached the most lavish proportions in the history of British Columbia. The capital is officially, but not in reality, the heart of political action.

The Manchester Guardian says that a recent illustrated supplement of a New York Sunday paper indicates the slackness of the British press. That supplement contains a picture of a group of seven "important" women in Governor Landon's early history. Among them are Mrs. Emma Linner, his great-aunt; Mrs. Molly Baird, his nurse; Mrs. Harry White, who helped to save baby clothes before his arrival, and Mrs. Hannah Durham, "from whom young Alf caught the chicken pox." The Guardian points out that not a single Canadian newspaper had sufficient enterprise to publish a portrait of the source of Mr. Anthony Eden's recent indisposition.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin in his Guildhall speech again showed his ability to wrap up in a few simple phrases the thoughts of his countrymen in the matter of Communism. Fascism and any other form of autocracy. The spirit of freedom, he says, is the British contribution to the world and it is one that is going to be maintained. Any attempt in Great Britain to impose shackles on that spirit will be resisted to the utmost. That is a plain warning to the warring political factions which now divide Europe into armed camps.

OUR PROBLEM

To shape the whole future is not our problem; but only to shape a faithfully small part of it, according to rules already known. It is perhaps possible for each of us, who will with the earnestness inquire, to ascertain clearly what he, for his own part, ought to do; this let him, with true heart, do. It has always done well with a Higher Intelligence. The Devil, the Devil with a ten commandments, dwelt in thy mind the things which should be done for one that thou dost! Do one of them; this of itself will show the others which can and shall be done. —Carlyle.

Kind words produce their own image in men's souls, and a beautiful image it is. They soothe and comfort the heavier. They shield him from his unkink feelings. We have not yet begun to use them in such abundance as they ought to be used.

Note and Comment

By Sandham Graves

The Provincial Government is about to help industry, again. It is an annual custom, and the precise degree of help planned for British Columbia industry at this time is $263,668.34. Not that industry will receive that sum, but it will pay it, and so be relieved of the necessity of worrying over so much money all at once.

Government relief of industry, in fact, is to be shared. The lumber industry will be helped by the collection from it of $1,900,000 in timber royalties, $550,000 in timber licences, $70,000 in timber leases, and $250,000 in water rentals and re-coding fees.

The mining industry will be assisted by the collection from it of $70,000 in "mine miners" certificates, $500,000 in mineral taxes,

$50,000 from unworked mineral claims, $100,000 in the coal and coke tax, and $140,000 in miscellaneous

receipts, to the Province.

The fishing industry is also to be helped by the collection from it of $10,000 in fishing and canning licences and by not-inconsiderable items under other heads.

Agriculture will benefit by the removal of its excess profit through income tax, by miscellaneous collections of $12,000, through court fines and fees under marketing control, and from a number of imposts directly upon land, irrigation and other holdings.

The game industry will be assisted, too, by hunting and fishing licences to amount to $12,000, and by other and helpful methods not immediately itemized.

Business in general will not be neglected in this direct and happy measure of relief.

From the Province's point of view it is the most important item of the entire budget.

The Province will be assisted by the removal of the death tax, which is a heavy burden on the inheritance of estates.

Remembrance Service For Empire's Heroes Is Largely Attended

Crowds Throng Christ Church Cathedral Here to Pay Tribute to War Dead—Bishop of Columbia Delivers the Address

VICTORIA citizens honored the Empire's war dead with an impressive service of remembrance, on Sunday afternoon, in Christ Church Cathedral, which was thronged with people who had gone to pay tribute to the memory of those who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914 to 1918.

The service was attended by Hon. G. G. Davies, Army and Navy Veterans, Canadian Legion, and Naval Veterans, Canadian Legion.

Following the procession of colors, the hymn "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" was sung. Rev. E. F. Church then said prayers, after which Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell read the lesson, which was Isaiah XL, verses 1-2. Then followed the hymn "God of Our Fathers."

BISHOP'S ADDRESS

The Remembrance service was presided over by Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia. He opened his remarks with the hope for an enduring peace on earth. He said that recent events had reacted on many who shared the enthusiasm of earlier times.

"For some have come the gloomy belief that war is so deep-seated in human nature as to be impossible to extinguish by any creed of dogged determination."

"Is not this the only attitude for those who believe in the purpose of the incarnation, which was the redemption of human nature?"

There were others, he continued, who appeared to welcome the doctrine of the inevitability of war.

"War, they say, is not only necessary but useful. That is an impossible view for those who worship the Prince of Peace, whose reign will usher in the peace of which war shall be no more or declared."

SURRENDER TO EVIL

"Perhaps the worst attitude of all is that of indifference and apathy. Many are so disengaged by the failure to establish a real basis for peace that they seek refuge in an endeavor to forget the horror and baseness of war, and to let events take their course—which is nothing less than surrender to the forces of evil."

"Now, the cause of war offers a parallel to that of peace," said the Bishop. "Ultimate victory only becomes possible through the replacement of earlier enthusiasm, not by indifference or despair but by a spirit of dogged determination."

"The lesson of the years since the war," he stated, "is that the cause of peace suffered rebuffs and setbacks as well as did the cause of victory. Yet extreme discouragement need not follow the discovery that the realization of the ideal is farther away than was believed."

FOUR APPEALS ARE DISMISSED

Earl Dunbar Fails in Petition
—To Hang on Friday
For Murder

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—Four appeals were dismissed by the Supreme Court of Canada in judgments delivered today. Three appeals were in civil cases, and one criminal appeal was that of Earl Dunbar, of Vancouver, who is under sentence of death for murder at Vancouver.

Dunbar was the last of five alleged British Columbia murderers to earn his fate at the hands of the court. He was convicted for the murder of a bank teller, William Hobbs, in the holdup of a Vancouver bank. With him was convicted George Russell, who was hanged last Friday.

The appeals of the two men were heard some time ago, and last week the court dismissed Russell's appeal.

At the conclusion of the address, the last congregation sang the hymn "O Valiant Hearts," and the sounding of the "Last Post" and the singing of the National Anthem brought the service to a close. The band of Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, assisted at the service.

Mrs. Henry Wilson, Pioneer Resident, Passed at Ripe Age—Funeral Thursday

The death of Mrs. Caroline Amelia Wilson, wife of Henry Wilson, 436 Wilson Street, occurred at the Jubilee Hospital on Saturday. Mrs. Wilson, who was eighty-nine years of age, was a native of London, England. She came to Canada in 1889, and had resided here ever since.

She leaves, besides her husband, three sons, Archibald and P. W. of Victoria, and Fred of Portland, a daughter, wife of Rev. Charles Durden of Omaha, Neb., also thirteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Wilson was a valued member of Victoria West United Church, where she had charge of the home department for twelve years.

The remains will rest at the Thompson Funeral Home, Quadra Street, until Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when they will be removed to the Victoria West United Church, where Rev. W. R. Brown will conduct the service at 2:30 o'clock.

Interment will be in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

BILLS ADVISED

Continuing with legislation at the evening sitting, the Government presented four more bills to third reading and took others a stage along their road to enactment.

Amendments to the Female Minim

Wage Act were read a third time.

Amendments to the Fisheries Act were read a third time unchanged, as were amendments to the Town Planning and Vital Statistics Acts.

The Government is reducing a $5 visiting anglers' fee to $1 per day for each of three days and $5 per season, it was explained on second reading of a bill to amend the Game Act. Co-operative fish buyers' associations, paying $25 annual licence fee, will be exempt under a bill to amend the Fisheries Act.

The House also read a second time.

LIFT TAX SALE

Bills to validate omission of tax

sales in Prince Rupert this year and to provide for destruction under safeguards of old public documents received second reading, unopposed.

There was a high mortality among public bills in the hands of private members, measures offered by the official C.C.P. group on health insurance, credit unions, trading unions and some banking methods running into conflict with Government benches, and the credit union measure being ruled out of order, the paper as against Crown prerogatives.

Rights of association, organization and collective bargaining were sought in the trade union measure.

LEGISLATURE SPEEDING UP

Minor Legislation Passed Through to Enactment Subject to Assent

British Columbia's Legislature went on to force march yesterday, with afternoon and evening sittings. Legislation advanced during the day included introduction of six new bills, and the taking of others to second and third readings. All were minor measures.

At the afternoon sitting, third reading was given to a routine change in the Legal Professions Act, while the Male Minimum Wage Act was finally amended to remove some existing loopholes.

SECOND READINGS

Second reading was given to a bill to amend the Apprenticeship Act, under which persons over twenty-one may make apprenticeship agreements; to the Town Planning Act to conform to a change in the Vancouver bylaws. Hartness, chairman of the planning commission there, and to the Vital Statistics Act "to clarify sections of the act and bring them into conformity with other jurisdictions," as the minister in charge of the bill explained.

Social Activities and Notes of Personal Interest

Personality Address Is Given by Dr. Anderson

Dr. Henrietta Anderson was the speaker at the first of a series of talks on "Growing a Personality" at the Y.W.C.A. last evening, her remarks being based on the subject "Human Relationships."

Dr. Anderson dealt with various aspects of human relationships under three headings, the home, business and social life. She pointed out that selfishness and jealousy cause many differences between people, the same thought applied in a large measure being reflected in no small way the cause of problems arising between nations.

IN THE HOME

The value of give and take in the home, being tolerant of one's own peculiarities and tolerant of the different traits of character in others were particularly applicable to the subject from the point of view of the home. Business relationships were often difficult because of the absence of the common denominator found in the home, she said, and added that a sense of responsibility to one's associates was essential.

SOCIAL STANDPOINT

Dealing with the subject from the social standpoint, the speaker pointed out the advantage of being able to choose one's own companions, but with this freedom the task of choosing wisely brought with it added responsibility.

In closing, Dr. Anderson said "we take our personality with us everywhere we go, and its influence is exerted to be good in proportion to our material advancements."

Miss William Graham introduced the speaker, also announced the speakers and subjects for the remainder of the series of addresses as follows: "World of Thought," Mr. H. L. Smith; "Physical Welfare," Mrs. D. M. Duncan; "Principles of Living," Mr. W. J. Graham; "Life," Beulah G. Smith, the speaker to be announced later.

Sunday, November 15, will be world-fellowship day and the speaker will be Mrs. W. E. Stevenson.

The Beaux-Arts executive met at the home of Mrs. Jack Barricough, Sylvan Lane, on Friday night to discuss several major items. The president, Miss Helen Seland, was in the chair. It was decided that Mr. Harry Tauber, eminent authority on the theatre and stage, in an illustrated lecture on the history and development of the theatre, to take place Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden.

Mr. Tauber, from Vienna, and has had varied connections with all branches of theatre work, and can talk on any branch connected with the stage. This lecture will be open to the public, the price of admission being very nominal.

Tentative plans for the annual Snow Ball, to be held at the Empress Hotel, December 28, were made at an urgent committee headed by Miss P. Cartroll, is working hard to make this affair an outstanding event of the festive season.

The three-act play, "Petticoat Fever," which is to be presented the first week in February, was discussed as well as the two plays which are to be produced in the Dominion Drama Festival.

MARKET REVIEW IS TRANPOSED

Reference to Coast Vegetable Board Transferred to Committee Room

On the advice of Hon. K. C. Mac-Donald, Minister of Agriculture, the British Columbia Legislature yesterday referred all questions of market control as they affect the British Columbia Vegetable Marketing Board to the legislative committee on agriculture. The committee was given power to investigate assertions as to alleged discrimination in vegetable marketing and operations of the scheme generally.

The action removes marketing discussions from the House, and paves the way for hearings before the committee on agriculture in due course.

OPPOSITION MOTIONS

On the advice of Hon. G. S. Pearson, the House went into record intermission upon motion that in any international consideration of fishery stocks of halibut and salmon in North Pacific waters, British Columbia be assured of a place at the conference.

Both motions arose with the opposition benches, but were accepted in amended form by the Government.

Debate arose on a third motion, one introduced by the C.P. and calling for public health training, and calling attention to social diseases. A Government amendment, moved by Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, proposed simply that the work of the existing provincial division on social diseases be intensified an opportunity permitted. Action was still under debate at the afternoon session.

SEEDED SESSION

Premier Patullo again during the day stressed the desire of the Government to close the session promptly, so that provincial Cabinet representation may attend at Ottawa on or about November 28 for Dominion - provincial conferences on finance and other matters. Whips, meanwhile, made plans for prorogation about November 20.

TIME EXTENSION ON TAXES ASKED

City Council Finance Committee to Investigate Consolidated Arrears Suggestion

Possibility of an extension in time for those who may pay their taxes next September under the fifteen-year consolidated arrears plan will be investigated by the City Council finance committee, it was decided yesterday.

The following resolution was received from the executive committee of Victoria Ratepayers' Association:

"This association understands the fifteen-year consolidation of tax arrears expires in September, 1937, and that notices will soon be sent out that the whole amount owing must be paid on the due date, or property will be sold for taxes. We desire to suggest that those ratepayers who have consistently paid their yearly interest to date given three years to pay in equal yearly payments on the definite understanding that in failure to pay either ordinary or fore-course proceedings will be taken."

"We feel this scheme would enable many to pay who are unable to put up the money in a lump sum and further it would save the city from having more property revert."

Giles had been up to town sightseeing. When the time came for his return he thought of taking home a present to the missus. He was so engrossed in his shopping and his homecoming appearance caused some laughter, but when he wished to buy, he got all the attention.

"I want some ribbon."

"Yes, sir," said the salesman.

He was shown some from 10 cents to two dollars a yard, but none would do. At last the manager found some, and when none said "I am not the one, this is five dollars a yard."

"That's champion," said Giles, "slash us off a pennyworth."

CONSTIPATION* MAY CUT DOWN YOUR ENJOYMENT OF LIFE

Long Neglected, It May Even Develop Serious Consequences

Common constipation* keeps you from being at your best. It causes discomfort, and may lead to headache and loss of appetite. You feel poor, lack your usual vigor.

So many people treat this condition as a slight matter. But it can be a serious, not of moment of trouble. It contributes to a general run-down condition. With lowered bodily resistance, you are more likely to pick up the first chance infection you meet in your everyday routine.

Common constipation* is due usually to insufficient "bulk" in meals. For this, a delicate cereal supplement, "bulk", within the body, the "bulk" in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and cleanses the system.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Stuffy bowel cases may require ALL-BRAN often. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company as an effective laxative food for constipation. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

*Constipation due to insufficient bulk

Rebels "Mopping Up" in Spanish Town

The Government defenders of Madrid have been giving Spanish Rebels plenty of opposition as the Fascists march on the capital. This picture shows a party of insurgent troops cautiously advancing up a narrow street during "mopping up" operations after taking the town of Santa Cruz de Retamar. An ambush of Red defenders was suspected on the other side of the arch in background, hence the extreme caution.

BIG TOURNEYS ARE ARRANGED

Golf Pros Will Fire Away at $200,000 Prize List During 1937 Campaign

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (UPI)—America's professional golfers' annual golf tournament, $200,000 target next year.

The happy news will be presented tomorrow at the opening session of the Professional Golfers' Association annual meeting by Robert E. Harlow, the tireless head of the organization's tournament bureau. The bureau will assume even greater proportions. Harlow said today: "Plans for a $25,000 all-star tournament are almost in probability, attained."

One of the most colorful events on the season's Rugby programme, tomorrow's fixture will have all the color and fanfare of previous matches. Pipers from the Canadian Scottish regiments will be present and will march members of their teams on to the field. The 5th B.C. Dragoon Brigade trumpet band will lead the Gunners into battle against the Scots.

GUNNERS HOLD CUP

Held at the present time by the Gunners, the prized Fordham Johnson Trophy will go to the winners.

Coach Cockin and John Baxter, rival mentors, reported their squads to be in the pink of condition and ready for a real struggle.

FRED PERRY JOINS PROFESSIONAL TENNIS RANKS

Famous English Star Will Make Debut January 6

World's Ranking Player Leaves Amateur Game by Signing Contract With Francis Hunter and Howard Voshell—Will Earn Between $75,000 and $100,000—Tour Arranged

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Fred Perry, of England, world amateur tennis champion, has turned professional. Francis T. Hunter and S. Howard Voshell jointly announced today.

Three-time winner of the American and all-England singles championships and backbone of the British Davis Cup team for the past four years, signed a contract with Hunter and Voshell to make a barnstorming tour this winter with Ellsworth Vines and probably Bill Tilden, and either George Lott or Lester Stoen.

The tour will open in Madison Square Garden, January 6, undoubtedly against Vines.

Perry's contract for the tour is based on a percentage of the gross receipts and a minimum guarantee reported to be $25,000. Hunter predicted Perry's earnings for the tour will range between $75,000 and $100,000.

The contract is concerned strictly with Perry's match play. In other words, it does not provide for testi-monials or other outside matters.

REVERAL OFFERS

Before he left for California, Perry said he had considered a number of offers both here and abroad, including one from Bill O'Brien, reported to have been for $50,000.

The black-haired Briton, who became a tennis favorite to capture the United States title three times when he defeated young Don Budge in a hectic five-set match at Forest Hills in September, was en route with Mrs. Perry, the former Helen Vinson, to their Beverly Hills, Calif., home when the announcement was made.

Security Prices Continue Strong At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 — Although encountering considerable selling pressure today, the stock market battled its way into new high recovery territory.

Demand for rail, merchandising and specialty issues led the tide, favored by buying forces and gains of fractions to around three points predominated at the close, with a few wider upturns.

Stocks, copper, motors and utilities were backward throughout.

Transfers totaled 3,139,080 shares against 2,717,102 last Friday.

The snap apparently was out of the automobile shares despite the statement of General Motors disclosing the second best ten-month sales to consumers in the U.S.

General Motors' Directors of General Motors, after the close declared a "year-end" dividend of $1.50 on the 45,000,000 shares of common stock. Three months ago the regular payment of 50 cents and an extra of 75 cents was paid.

Extensive advances by French issues captured trading attention in an active bond market.

In French bonds a gain of 35-7-8 per cent was registered. It is followed by unconfirmed rumors they would be paid at the old gold rate.

Corporate bonds moving to new levels included Santa Fe 4s at 115-4 and Northern Pacific 4s at 110.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"Dear Chief: The letter you printed one day last week, written by a woman who signed herself B. J. and accused you and myself of persistently implying that men play better than women, may have 'cut you to the quick' and made you scurry for cover, cravenly refusing to confirm or deny the truth of her accusations, but You and I made of stern stuff. Certainly I think I play better than do women. The reason is simple. Lotis is bound to get better results than intuition in a game as scientific as contract. As for women as bridge partners! Who wants a partner to whom one cannot say an unkind word without said partner either bursting into tears or (more infuriating) calmly powdering her nose? (I'll wager a pretty penny that my contract spy is a bachelor.)

"The hand I am enclosing was played by a young woman. It is a good example of half-completed reasoning.

THE BIDDING:

South West North East

1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass

4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

"No trump would have been the correct rebid.

"West opened the heart king and declarer held off, hoping for a Bath count (continuation of the heart suit up to the remaining ace-jack tenace). But West correctly shifted to the club king and continued with a second round, East winning and returning a heart. Declarer won this with the ace and drew three rounds of trumps, ending in dummy. The diamond finesse then was successfully taken (declarer showing her pleasure with rippling guffaw laughter), but to the fact that the diamond king failed to drop in three leads, declarer found

CHEST COLDS

Thou shalt not Love by Anna Sioux Scarberry

CHAPTER XIV

Dr. Landings' sanitarium was within a few minutes of Boston. It was set back in a grove of trees, guaranteeing absolute privacy to sensitive souls. At once Jocelyn was made to feel at home. Comparing her own figure with some of the more monstrous men and women who had turned to Dr. Landings for help, she felt like a slender sapling.

One woman told her she had been there three months, and had lost sixty pounds. Everyone spoke in glowing terms of the genius of the famous doctor. But the most pleasant part about the hospital, as Hilda Svensen, the nurse who had been assigned as her special attendant.

At the end of a week they were fast friends. Hilda seemed always by her side, offering fruit or vegetable juice, suggesting it was time for a swim; horseback riding. But Nurse Svensen was most firm in her insistence that Jocelyn do overeating. Every time she came in and found her at the typewriter she would shake her head and say she wished she had left her work at home.

By the end of the six weeks, Josh had written a series of articles for the women's page that she felt certain would be exactly what Mr. Buell wanted. The time had flown by on wings as she wrote and followed the hospital's rigid routine.

Josh had written to Suzie every day, receiving humorous little scrawled notes of encouragement in return. Jinx had assured her she was happy at Mrs. Baer's, and told of watching to see whether Jake and Kel had been going out together.

Jacqueline, she told Josh had stayed at home, getting her meals out. Suzie had written flingingly.

"I guess we were afraid she would have written to us if she went to a hotel. But if we have been out together, I've been asleep or to school or somewhere."

Every morning Nurse Svensen put Jocelyn on a table and massaged and pounded her until she was black and blue. But at the end of two weeks the daily mauling had stopped hurting. She had lost nine pounds, and Miss Svensen had gone into Boston with her to shop for a couple of little print dresses.

By the end of another week, her clothes would be hanging like rags on a scarecrow when she left. So they had gone to a bargain basement and bought wash things that would be sure to shrink.

In four weeks Josh scarcely recognized her own self. Her favorite spot was in front of the long mirror in the bathroom door. There she would stare incredulously at the new Mary Lou Temple, with the fast developing bulges, and the slender hips. Dr. Landings came up every week for her return to dummy with an amused understanding. Jocelyn paraded her new figure for his inspection. The fifth week she had lost almost twenty-five pounds, and he pronounced her ready to leave the following Friday.

Thursday was Hilda Svensen's day off. Early in the morning they went to Boston for the day. And to Josh, it was the most exciting day of her life. She was going to have a permanent wave, and buy a new wardrobe. It couldn't be a very big wardrobe, or an expensive view, will I have no doubt put his life and limb in serious jeopardy."

"But, of course, this wasn't the type of hand that lends itself best to feminine techniques."

"You'll be satisfied, Spy."

"I wish it to be thoroughly understood that I am not responsible for my spy's brutally frank expression of view, will I have no doubt put his life and limb in serious jeopardy."

"Everybody's talking about ye," said a friend. "They're a-saying ye had no right to marry so young a lass as ye did. The disparity is too great."

"Don't you believe it," said the farmer. "As a matter of fact, every time I looks at my wife I feel twenty years younger, and every time she looks at me she feels twenty years older!"

Farmer Hodges had married again, and all the village was talking about it. It was known that the farmer's bride was twenty years younger than the old stockless was.

And Hilda Svensen had spent hours cutting down lingerie to make it while she was in the hospital.

It was amazing how much her black hair had grown in the six weeks she had let it go. By noon, it lay in shining ringlets all over her round head. The face had lost its full, robust look and the beauty parlor proprietor decided she should use a warm pinkish powder and get thin lips to go with her young, pinkish face and blue brown eyes. She always never try to be the cream and scarlet sophisticated type.

The girl that stared back from the mirror seemed like a total stranger. When she remembered she would have to face the office staff and the family at home, she became a little panicky. But with her changed appearance had come a new confidence, and she squared her shoulders and decided she didn't care what other people thought.

Even her own mother had no idea why she was away. She had written Maida she was on an assignment and that she would tell her all about it when she got home. Suzie had assured her she hadn't breathed the secret to a soul, and seemed to be counting the hours until she could touch off the fireworks.

With Hilda Svensen beaming excitedly beside her, Josh found a mid-season sale of silk dresses at a department store and selected three.

She had match-panel shades that are had a strong, strong, and becoming to her. She had also worn stripes and tweeds in dark colors.

A powder blue silendancing tailored her, when she tried it on with a small brimmed hat that came down over one eye. It was topped with a jaunty white feather.

There was a delicious rose crepe with short puffy sleeves and a wide brimmed felt hat that made her heart skip with joy. Never in her life had she owned a big hat.

She decided on a charming little bikini and just in time for the office with broken accessories to.

And there'd have to be one evening dress. They selected white chiffon with a about wrap. It made her look like a radiant little bride. There were ruffles very similar to the ones on the yellow. But of one thing she was certain: Maida might say it looked dreadful, but she couldn't say it made her look like a basket.

When Josh got to the lingerie department, she wished she could spend a week buying everything
